EXHIBIT SPACE FOR LIVESTOCK AT FAIR FILLED

The South Mountain Fair association—its 1951 presentation scheduled to begin Tuesday night—is already considering enlarging for next year's exhibition.

Hopes that this year's fair will prove to be the "biggest, best and most unusual ever" are already coming true for the association, with practically every available inch of display space scheduled to be filled this year.

Only one worry still concerned fair officials, and that is the number of exhibits by individuals in the various departments. They are assured, however, that the largest commercial display in history will be present next week. Every available space for commercial displays has, for the first time in the fair's history, been sold.

Holiday preparations seemed to increase the number of customers at the Farmers' Market this morning, with most of the farmers reporting the largest attendance at the mart in some time.

To meet the demands of the customers, the farmers had their sections overflowing with produce. Peaches were in great abundance and varied in price according to size and type of peach, from 25 to 35 cents a quart peck. Hale Haven, South Haven, Belle of Georgia, Hale and some of the newer Slappy type varieties were on sale. The prices ranged from 40 to 50 cents a half peck, $1 to $1.25 a half bushel and $1.75 to $2 a bushel.

Crabapple Price Up

Crabapples were up to 25 cents a quart and 40 cents a half peck. Apples, mostly Summer Rambos, were selling fairly slow at 20 to 25 cents a quart peck, 35 to 45 cents a half peck, and as low as $1.50 a bushel.

Tomatoes were very plentiful at 15 to 20 cents a box, and some were sold at $1 a bushel. Plums were generally 25 cents a box or $2 a half bushel. Lima beans were sold out early at 15 cents a box, 30 cents a pint and 60 cents a quart.

Different Rabbit Exhibit

SEN. M'PHERSON GIVES TAX TALK

"Additional revenues needed by the Commonwealth during the coming biennium will have to be raised by other than a new broad base tax," State Senator Donald P. McPherson, of Gettysburg, told members of the Chambersburg Rotary club Thursday.

Discounting any hope for a successful revival by lawmakers at the current legislative session of plans to impose a general sales tax or an income levy, Senator McPherson said the state soon will be faced with a definite need for such a new broad base tax levy.

Greater Need Later

Because the need for such a new tax is expected to become more acute in the years immediately ahead, the area lawmaker said he felt the state would be "doing wrong" if it imposed such a tax to meet the limited financial needs of the current biennium.

One of a group of Republican senators who successfully blocked passage of an income tax levy recommended by Governor Pine, Senator McPherson explained "some of us didn't like the tax. Some felt it was not needed at this time."

No Deductions

Returning to the income tax as proposed by the administration, the speaker said it contained many objectionable features, chief among which was the fact that it provided for no exemptions or deductions except for "several business deductions."

The one-half of one percent tax rate proposed for the income tax levy is not a rate that cannot be increased," Senator McPherson added, "in fact, there already was talk of increasing the rate to 1 or 1 1/2 percent at the next legislative session when the measure appeared to have a chance of passage at the current session."

Munsan, Korea, Sept. 1 (P)—Allied investigators said today that if any plane bombed the neutral Korean armistice site this morning—as the Reds claim—it was "an aircraft other than a United Nations aircraft."

The inference was that the Reds staged the bombing themselves for propaganda purposes.

Air Force Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior United Nations liaison officer, told a Red liaison officer in the conference city of Kaesong it was possible that a plane had bombed the Kaesong area early today.

But, Kinney said, there was no evidence to show that the plane involved was an aircraft under United Nations control.

EXHIBIT SPACE FOR LIVESTOCK AT FAIR FILLED

The South Mountain Fair association — its 1951 presentation scheduled to begin Tuesday night — is already considering enlarging for next year's exhibition.

Hopes that this year's fair will prove to be the "biggest, best and most unusual ever" are already coming true for the association, with practically every available inch of display space scheduled to be filled this year.

Only one worry still concerned fair officials, and that is the number of exhibits by individuals in the various departments. They are assured, however, that the largest commercial display in history will be present next week. Every available space for commercial displays has, for the first time in the fair's history, been sold.

Livestock Space Filled
Interest in the livestock division of the fair indicates that the fair will probably have to increase its 56 stall spaces for livestock. With between 20 and 25 head to be placed by the Holstein Breeders association of the county, and with the 4-H clubs scheduled to have approximately 20 Baby Bees on hand, the exhibit is already filled. A Cumberland county farmer whose herds have been the mainstay of the livestock exhibit the past several years had to draw a bye for this year, because there will be no place to put his cattle. In addition the Ayrshire breeders in Adams county will have to withhold their herds — a group that could fill the allotted space alone, because of lack of space.

If other exhibits live up to last year's display of more than 100,000 articles, ranging from rabbits to feedstuffs, and from home canned foods to grain, the fair will be more than filled, association officials said.

To Display Furniture
A number of new features are scheduled, officials hope, to bring in increased numbers of exhibits. Last year's art show, the largest in the two years' show an exhibit has been at the fair, is expected to be surpassed this year with the addition of several new classes.

Among the new sections in the art show will be a display of furniture made by countyans. Other new divisions are for wood carving, decorated tin trays and decorated glass.

A special feature of the art show will be the selection of the finest article—with the selection to be made by popular vote. A special $250 prize will go for the object, whether painting, drawing, wood carving, or whatever, voted as the best in the division. Those visiting the art exhibit will vote on their choice throughout the five days of the show. The votes will be counted Saturday night.

A similar award for the best print in the show will be made in the photography division.

Different Rabbit Exhibit
The rabbit exhibit this year will differ from that of previous years in that all of the rabbits will be of the commercial type rather than those bred for show purposes. Most of those competing in the rabbit display will be farmers from Adams, Franklin, Cumberland and York counties who supply rabbits for the Pennsylvania Rabbit Breeders cooperative plant at Granite.

Hess, Washington township; agronomy, Arnold Lueck, Chambersburg, and Carol Slothour, York Springs; tractor driving, John Kratzert, New Oxford, and James Wilson, Lemasters.

Teachers selected to be in charge of the scoring for the PFA contests include Paul Benchoff, Fairfield, and E. E. Blackburn, Metal township.

Only one of the judges for the PFA judging contest events, Henry Warner, of Chambersburg, for livestock, has been announced so far. Named as judges for the tractor events are Carl Seifrit, Biglerville; Millard Fitzgerald, Shippensburg R. D., and Herbert Heberlein, Chambersburg.

BRISK DEMAND FOR PRODUCE AT FARMERS' MART

Holiday preparations seemed to increase the number of customers at the Farmers' Market this morning, with most of the farmers reporting the largest attendance at the mart in some time.

To meet the demands of the customers, the farmers had their sections overflowing with produce. Crabapple Price Up Crabapples were up to 25 cents a quarter and 40 cents a half peck. Apples, mostly Summer Rambos, were selling fairly slow at 20 to 25 cents a quarter peck, 35 to 45 cents a half peck, and as low as $1.50 a bushel.

Tomatoes were very plentiful at 15 to 20 cents a box, and some were sold at $1 a bushel. Plums were generally 25 cents a box or $2 a half bushel. Lima beans were sold out early at 15 cents a box, 30 cents a pint and 60 cents a quart.

Large white eggs were 72 cents a dozen; bread 20 cents a loaf; butter 70 and 75 cents a pound; whipping cream 40 cents a pint; potato salad 20 and 25 cents a pint; cottage cheese, 20 cents a pint; cookies 25 cents a dozen; cakes $1 and $1.25; rolls, 20 cents a dozen; pies, 40 and 50 cents; vegetable soup 25 cents a pint; and grapes were fairly plentiful at 15 cents a quart box.

Following a roll call of the officers and delegates current business will be taken up, including the nomination of officers for the coming year.

The afternoon session will open at 1:15 o'clock with the election of officers and selection of the next place of meeting. Following the address of the retiring president and one by the incoming president, and the completion of unfinished business, Judge Sheely will present his address.

Parade In Afternoon

The annual firemen's parade held in connection with the convention is scheduled for 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Present officers of the county association include Calvin Lerew, East Berlin, president; Charles Bretzman, Bendersville, vice president; Roger Myers, Fairfield, secretary; Edward G. ## SEN. M'PHERSON GIVES TAX TALK

"Additional revenues needed by the Commonwealth during the coming biennium will have to be raised by other than a new broad base tax," State Senator Donald P. McPherson, of Gettysburg, told members of the Chambersburg Rotary club Thursday.

Discounting any hope for a successful revival by lawmakers at the current legislative session of plans to impose a general sales tax or an income levy, Senator McPherson said the state soon will be faced with a definite need for such a new broad base tax levy.

Greater Need Later

Because the need for such a new tax is expected to become more acute in the years immediately ahead, the area lawmaker said he felt the state would be "doing wrong" if it imposed such a tax to meet the limited financial needs of the current biennium.

One of a group of Republican senators who successfully blocked passage of an income tax levy recommended by Governor Fine, Senator McPherson explained "some of us didn't like the tax. Some felt it was not needed at this time."

Accepting administration figures that a minimum of $138,000,000 in additional revenues will be needed to meet budget allocations and other allocations made by the Legislature, Senator McPherson told the Rotarians that "What the corporate net income tax is going to yield is the crux of the whole (tax) situation."

No Deductions

Returning to the income tax as proposed by the administration, the speaker said it contained many objectionable features, chief among which was the fact that it provided for no exemptions or deductions except for "several business deductions."

The one-half of one percent tax rate proposed for the income tax levy "is not a rate that cannot be increased," Senator McPherson noted, adding: "In fact, there already was talk of increasing the rate to 1 or 1½ percent at the next legislative session when the measure appeared to have a chance of passage at the current session."

ARENTZ GIVEN YEAR IN JAIL ON 2 CHARGES

The Misses Emma and Maggie Gastley, West High street, were given a suspended sentence, placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay the costs. The sisters had been charged with being common scolds.

William F. Arentz, Gettysburg R. 1, was sentenced to one year in the county jail and ordered to pay the costs on a hit and run charge by the Adams county court this morning.

A similar sentence was given Arentz on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The two sentences will run concurrently and Arentz was told he may petition the court for a parole after 30 days.

Harold Musser, Gettysburg R. 1, charged with drunken driving, was sentenced to 30 days and ordered to pay $50 for the use of the county and the costs.

Robert Baker, South Mountain, charged with driving after suspension of his license, was sentenced to 30 days and ordered to pay $100 for the use of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the costs.

Suspended Sentence
Jollie D. Godfrey, 142 West High street, charged with operating a motor vehicle after suspension of his license, was given a suspended sentence and ordered to pay $150 for the use of the county and the costs.

The court handed down an opinion in the petition for a writ of habeas corpus of John H. Laughman, Green Springs, denying the petition. Laughman had originally been sentenced November 25 on a charge of burglary and larceny and then had escaped from the Adams county jail. He was brought back and the original sentence of burglary and larceny was revoked and he was imprisoned in the Eastern penitentiary for 18 months to three years on the original charges. He was not prosecuted for the jail break charge.

Laughman based his petition on the court's authority to revoke a sentence given November 25 and change that sentence on January 13, arguing that the next term of court had begun by that time. The court held that one term of court does not end until the beginning of the next term and that the meeting of a grand jury does not constitute the beginning of a new term but that the grand jury must meet prior to the beginning of a new term.

THREE NATIONS SIGN A MUTUAL DEFENSE TREATY

San Francisco Sept. 1 (AP) — The United States, Australia and New Zealand today signed a mutual defense treaty extending this country's security guarantees over a vast new area of the world.

It provides another link in a future Pacific-wide military alliance against the Communist threat and is a curtain-raiser for next week's Japanese peace conference.

Arriving by plane yesterday, Secretary of State Acheson in an obvious reference to Russia said the day ahead would show which are the peaceful nations and which are those that "talk peace while taking action that may impair and prevent the strengthening of peace."

Warning To Reds

The tripartite pact is conceived by its creators as raising a warning flag to Moscow against any aggressive thrust into the southwest Pacific. At the same time it places a barrier in the way of any future resurgence of Japanese empire-building.

It will be signed at the historic presidio of San Francisco, headquarters of the U. S. Sixth Army, in a setting of military pomp with artillery booming 19-gun salutes to each delegation.

Just before signatures are penned on the three-way treaty, Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is scheduled to lead Russia's 39-member delegation into town for the Japanese peace treaty conference. That conference will be opened by President Truman Tuesday night at the San Francisco Memorial Opera House, birthplace of the United Nations.

A 20-member Japanese delegation to the peace treaty conference arrived in Honolulu Friday night and is due here Sunday. The delegation is led by Premier Shigeru Yoshida.

Today's treaty signing, like the conclusion in Washington Thursday of a similar U. S.-Philippines defense pact, stands with the Japanese peace treaty — set for signing Sept. 8 — as part of a great Allied plan to secure the Pacific against any extension of Communist power.

Ancient Car Gets Pick-A-Back Ride

Pittsburgh (AP)—Not long ago one of those big trucks which haul shining new autos pulled up and stopped near a busy intersection in downtown Pittsburgh.

Two men got out of the cab and eased a 1933 Ford from the truck. They shook hands. Then one got into his 18-year-old car and drove away.

Someone asked the truck driver why he was hauling the ancient auto. He said the Ford owner had been a stranger to him until they met outside of Philadelphia, adding: "I didn't have anybody to talk to coming back to Pittsburgh. I was kind of lonely. I offered him a lift and we rolled the Ford in. It helps pass the time when you get somebody along."

EVA PERON, 29, QUILTS CHANCE TO BE V-PRESIDENT

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Sept. 1 (AP)—Blonde, 29-year-old Eva Peron tearfully gave up her chance last night to become the first woman vice president in the Western Hemisphere.

The dynamic wife of President Juan D. Peron announced that she could not accept the Peronista party nomination.

Speaking over the radio from the presidential residence, the woman who has guided the nation's labor policies said she had reached an "irrevocable decision to renounce the high honor" of running with her husband in the November 11 election.

Opposed By Army

It had been reported that her nomination by the Peronista party was opposed by some sections of the army because of the possibility she might become president and commander-in-chief. Even a sizeable group within the Peronista party was said to oppose putting her name on a Peron-Peron ticket—a nomination which virtually would have assured election.

Mrs. Peron stepped aside in favor of white-haired Horacio Quijano, who has been Peron's silent vice presidential partner since his election in 1946.

Argentina's first lady—the first to take an active part in public affairs—was nominated by the party August 22 after 250,000 pro-government workers and party followers loudly demanded that she and her husband "rule Argentina forever."

How To People's Will

At that time, she and her husband both withheld acceptance of the nomination. But Eva told the rally she would bow to the people's will. Peron now has a new opportunity to accept the nomination with Quijano as his running mate.

Over the nationwide radio hook-up last night, Mrs. Peron sobbed: "I only want history to say of me that beside Peron there was a woman who took to him the people's problems. The people have called me Evita (diminutive of Eva). That is my pride, because I have won the heart of the workers x x x."

Squeeze Informers Out Of Tattling Pay

London, Sept. 1 (AP) — Britain has cut off another form of private enterprise. A law which becomes effective today takes away most of the profit common informers have realized for the past 62 years.

Until today, informers collected the fine if the people they tattled on were convicted of breaking any of 43 different laws. A handful of smart men who read up on these laws made informing their only profession.

Their richest field was Britain's strict Sunday observance laws. Informers could collect from anyone giving unauthorized entertainment on Sunday — even amateur dramatists in certain cases.

The new common informers act leaves the penalties for breaches of these laws the same, but the money now will go into the public purse.

THREE NATIONS SIGN A MUTUAL DEFENSE TREATY

San Francisco Sept. 1 (AP) — The United States, Australia and New Zealand today sign a mutual defense treaty extending this country's security guarantees over a vast new area of the world.

It provides another link in a future Pacific-wide military alliance against the Communist threat and is a curtain-raiser for next week's Japanese peace conference.

Arriving by plane yesterday, Secretary of State Acheson in an obvious reference to Russia said the days ahead would show which are the peaceful nations and which are those that "talk peace while taking action that may impair and prevent the strengthening of peace."

Warning To Reds

The tripartite pact is conceived by its creators as raising a warning flag to Moscow against any aggressive thrust into the southwest Pacific. At the same time it places a barrier in the way of any future resurgence of Japanese empire-building.

It will be signed at the historic presidio of San Francisco, headquarters of the U. S. Sixth Army, in a setting of military pomp with artillery booming 19-gun salutes to each delegation.

Just before signatures are penned on the three-way treaty, Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is scheduled to lead Russia's 39-member delegation into town for the Japanese peace treaty conference. That conference will be opened by President Truman Tuesday night at the San Francisco Memorial Opera House, birthplace of the United Nations.

A 20-member Japanese delegation to the peace treaty conference arrived in Honolulu Friday night and is due here Sunday. The delegation is led by Premier Shigeru Yoshida.

Today's treaty signing, like the conclusion in Washington Thursday of a similar U. S.-Philippines defense pact, stands with the Japanese peace treaty — set for signing Sept. 8 — as part of a great Allied plan to secure the Pacific against any extension of Communist power.

Ancient Car Gets Pick-A-Back Ride

Pittsburgh (AP) — Not long ago one of those big trucks which haul shipping new autos pulled up and stopped near a busy intersection in downtown Pittsburgh.

Two men got out of the cab and eased a 1933 Ford from the truck. They shook hands. Then one got into his 18-year-old car and drove away. Someone asked the truck driver why he was hauling the ancient auto. He said the Ford owner had been a stranger to him until they met outside of Philadelphia, adding: "I didn't have anybody to talk to coming back to Pittsburgh. I was kind of lonely. I offered him a lift and we rolled the Ford in. It helps pass the time when you got somebody along."

Society Formed To Stay Up Late

Copenhagen (AP) — An international clinophobia society has been formed in Denmark. Its members, from three nations, rally around a common wish not to go to bed until the early hours of the morning.

So far the society members are less than half a dozen but they remind each other, on all suitable occasions, not to forget to stay up late. The society president, Alfred Olsen, a Copenhagen businessman, received on his 75th birthday recently this cable from the other members.

"The International Clinophobia society greets its honorable president cordially, prohibiting him to go to bed at all tonight."

Nationalization Opposed In Burma

Rangoon (AP) — The "Bama Khit," a leading Burmese language newspaper, has editorially opposed the socialist government's nationalization plans, asserting nationalization is alien to the Burmese.

The paper considered Burma's social, religious and economical environment are factors against nationalization which, it says, to be effective presupposes dictatorial methods in its application.

The paper warned that nationalization, if forced upon the country, will bring only misery and dissatisfaction to the people.

EVA PERON, 29, QUILTS CHANCE TO BE V-PRESIDENT

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Sept. 1 (AP) — Blonde, 29-year-old Eva Peron tearfully gave up her chance last night to become the first woman vice president in the Western Hemisphere.

The dynamic wife of President Juan D. Peron announced that she could not accept the Peronista party nomination.

Speaking over the radio from the presidential residence, the woman who has guided the nation's labor policies, said she had reached an "irrevocable decision to renounce the high honor" of running with her husband in the November 11 election.

Opposed By Army

It had been reported that her nomination by the Peronista party was opposed by some sections of the army because of the possibility she might become president and commander-in-chief. Even a sizeable group within the Peronista party was said to oppose putting her name on a Peron-Peron ticket—a nomination which virtually would have assured election.

Mrs. Peron stepped aside in favor of white-haired Hortensio Quijano, who has been Peron's silent vice presidential partner since his election in 1946.

Argentina's first lady—the first to take an active part in public affairs—was nominated by the party August 22 after 250,000 pro-government workers and party followers loudly demanded that she and her husband "rule Argentina forever."

How To People's Will

At that time, she and her husband both withheld acceptance of the nomination. But Eva told the rally she would bow to the people's will. Peron now has a new opportunity to accept the nomination with Quijano as his running mate.

Over the nationwide radio hook-up last night, Mrs. Peron sobbed: "I only want history to say of me that beside Peron there was a woman who took to him the people's problems. The people have called me Evita (diminutive of Eva). That is my pride, because I have won the heart of the workers x x x."

Interstate League

(By The Associated Press)

The Interstate Baseball league heads into the final three days of play with the Hagerstown Braves holding a firm three and a half game edge over the Allentown Cardinals.

The Cards, who have given the Braves a battle for top position the past month, were shut out twice last night by the third place Wilmington Blue Rocks, 9-0, 7-0. Hagerstown added a full game to its lead by splitting a doubleheader with Sunbury, winning the opener 2-0, losing the nightcap, 8-6.

The cellar-dwelling Salisbury Athletics snapped a 10-game losing streak by trouncing the Lancaster Red Roses 7-0 on the one-hit pitching of Jerry Minton in the second game of another double bill. In the opener the Red Roses won 5-3.

The York White Roses salvaged one game of a three-game series by whipping the Harrisburg Senators 7-3 in the only single contest.

Bob Miller, recently sent to the Blue Rocks from the parent Philadelphia Phillies, and Dick England hurled the whitewash jobs for Wilmington. Miller had a three-hit and England gave up six safeties.

The Blue Rocks put away the opener with four runs in the second. Two runs in each of the third, fifth and sixth frames of the nightcap gave the Blue Rocks a clean sweep in a four-game series with the runner-up Cardinals.

Barney Bornholdt's two-run homer in the eighth inning sparked a four-run Sunbury rally in the second game to prevent Hagerstown from sweeping a twin bill. The Braves took the opener behind the four-hit twirling of Andy Bush. It was Bush's 22nd win of the year against three losses.

The Queens three small children were not overcome by the gas which flowed full blast from a living room stove, Sergeant Hillenbrand declared.

Mrs. Queen was revived quickly and is reported in satisfactory condition at Pittsburgh's South Side hospital.

Her husband, who has lost eight and won five with the Pirates this season, is reported flying here from St. Louis.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP) — In one day's mail comes a prediction from Bob Hall that football attendance will increase this fall, confirming evidence from Indiana U. where ticket manager George Keough reports the biggest week of sales in recent years, and a demurrer from Ted Mann, the Duke publicist who doubles as a baseball executive. . . . Hall figures the limitations on football television and stepped up employment in industry will account for larger crowds and sees a general upward trend, especially in the east. . . . Mann reports that some schools have suffered a drop in advance sales which football folks blame on "the shortage of the amusement dollar." (Is there anything amusing about a dollar you don't have?) . . . "Both the football folks and baseball folks are blaming it on television and they have proof that they are right," Ted adds. . . . Back to Yale, hilarious Herman Hickman has been receiving reports on how hard his athletes have been working at manual labor during the summer. . . . Says Herman: "When they get back, we'll put them all in a pot and boil them. Those that are too tough to eat—well, we'll play them."

NO COMPETITION
Fay C. Bartlett, director of physical education at Lehigh, was taking his four-year-old grandson, David, on a tour of the university's new gym. . . . He decided the kid must be a great athlete. . . . In the swimming pool gallery, David told some collegians: "I can dive off the high board." . . . In the apparatus room he told others he could swing better than they did. . . . They they walked into the basketball gym and young Dave looked slightly bewildered: "What can I do here?" he wondered. "Nobody is around."

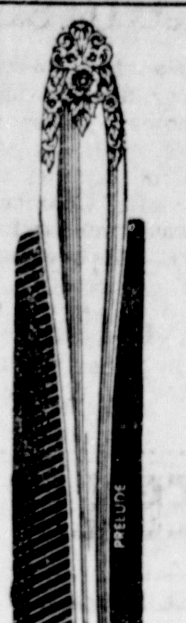

SHORTS AND SHELLS
Nearly every available charter plane in the Miami area already has been tabbed for a huge "airlift" to New Orleans September 29 when Andy Gustafson's Miami Hurricanes open the season against Tulane. . . . Bob Brumby, beating the drums at Middletown, Md., claims that Randy Turpin's Catskill camp, claims that Randy knocks off seven or eight miles of road work "with the ease of a talented pickpocket covering one subway car." . . . Pro football experts say the Chicago Cardinals have more "sleepers" than the Pull company—notably Fred Wallner, Notre Dame guard; Tony Kilmeik, Illinois end, and Bill Cross, a scabbard from West Texas State.

Delone Catholic high, which meets the Gettysburg high football team on September 21 at McSherrystown, is moulding its 1951 squad around seven returning lettermen.

SAVITT FACES BIG TEST WITH INJURED LEG

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 1.—P. Dick Savitt, still limping from a painful leg infection, faced perhaps the most severe test of his tennis career today in a quarter-final match against Budge Patty of Los Angeles in the National championships.

The tall, dark star from Orange, N. J., was able to whip straighter Clark of Los Angeles on sheer power in their postponed match yesterday, but against a player of Patty's class one needs to run fast and plenty. There was doubt in the minds of many observers that Dick would be up to it today.

However, Savitt was grimly determined to give it all he had. With the dream of every tennis player—victory in the Australian, Wimbledon and American championships—within sight, the ball pouncer from Cornell couldn't afford to let a mere leg stop him at this point.

Last On Program
Tournament officials, anxious to give the stricken star every possible chance to recover, permitted him to wait until the last possible moment before playing Clark. In fact, if the match hadn't gone off in a hurry—6-3, 6-1, 6-3—it probably wouldn't have been finished. For the same reason, Savitt's go with Patty was to be the last thing on today's menu.

In the other quarter-final, Herbie Plam of Beverly Hills was paired against Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, who upset Ker McGregor of Australia in the previous round.
Larsen looked like a lot of tennis player yesterday in eliminating 37-year-old Gardner Mulloy of Miami, 6-8, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4.
The defending champ's biggest test will come tomorrow when he tackles Frank Sedgman of Australia in the semi-finals. The Aussie ace disposed of dynamite Tony Trabert of Cincinnati 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3 yesterday.

LOWLY BROWNS DUMP INDIANS GAME BEHIND

By RALPH BODEN

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Generally, the St. Louis Browns are used as stepping stones by pennant contending teams in the American league. But that's not the case when the Cleveland Indians are the opposition.

The Browns hibernating in last place, 40 games off the pace, helped knock the Indians out of the 1950 race and last night dealt the Tribe a staggering blow in the current flag chase.

St. Louis defeated the Indians 6-3, to dump the Tribe one game behind the idle New York Yankees. The victory was the only Browns win in 16 meetings with Cleveland. The Yanks hold a 17-3 record against the Browns and the third place Boston Red Sox boast a 16-3 record over the Misshurians.

Satchel Paige Helps
The Browns killed Cleveland's flag hopes last year. The Indians were 4 1/2 games behind on Sept. 9 when the Browns came in and swept a four game series to take Cleveland's throne.

Jim McDonald with help from Satchel Paige, stopped the Indians before 23,088 fans at Cleveland last night. Paige, former Indian, rushed to the rescue in the ninth after the first two Triebmen reached base.

The Yanks, off the past two days, resume action today with the Senators in Washington. Ed Lopat (16-7) is slated to face Washington's Sid Hudson (4-8). The Indians again entertain the Browns while the third place Red Sox take on Philadelphia in Boston.

Box Black Tigers
In the only other game yesterday the Chicago White Sox blanked the Detroit Tigers, 2-0. Saul Rogovin, former Tiger, limited the Bengals to seven hits. Tiger pitcher Marlin Stuart deserved a better fate.

Stuart barged out a triple and two singles and allowed only six hits. The White Sox scored both of their runs in the sixth.

Nelson Fox singled, stole second and went to third on an error by Bob Swift. Fox scored when shortstop Johnny Ligon made a two base error on Minnie Minoso's grounder. Ed Robinson singled Minoso home with the final run.

Action in the national league picks up today with the big game putting the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers against the runner-up Giants in New York.

Dickinson Coach Expires Suddenly

Carlisle, Sept. 1.—Charles H. B. (Chick) Kennedy, 41, director of athletics, head of the physical education department and head basketball coach of Dickinson college, died suddenly Friday at his home in nearby Boiling Springs.

In ill health for several years, Kennedy suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Friday morning at 7 o'clock and died shortly after the noon hour without regaining consciousness.

Surviving are his wife, the former Dorothy Carl, of Mt. Holly Springs, four children, Charles, Marjorie Ann, James and Michael; and one brother, George H. Kennedy, of New York City.

Funeral services Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the funeral home at 169 West High street, Carlisle, with the Rev. R. R. Zeisler, pastor of Otterbein church, officiating.

LOWLY BROWNS DUMP INDIANS GAME BEHIND

By RALPH RODEN

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Generally, the St. Louis Browns are used as stepping stones by pennant contending teams in the American league. But that's not the case when the Cleveland Indians are the opposition.

The Browns, hibernating in last place, 40 games off the pace, helped knock the Indians out of the 1950 race and last night dealt the Tribe a staggering blow in the current flag chase.

St. Louis defeated the Indians 6-3, to dump the Tribe one game behind the idle New York Yankees. The victory was the lowly Browns' fifth in 16 meetings with Cleveland. The Yanks hold a 17-3 record against the Browns and the third place Boston Red Sox boast a 16-5 record over the Missourians.

Satchel Paige Helps
The Browns killed Cleveland's flag hopes last year. The Indians were 4 1/2 games behind on Sept. 9 when the Browns came in and swept a four game series to balk Cleveland's threat.

Jim McDonald, with help from Satchel Paige, stopped the Indians before 23,088 fans at Cleveland last night. Paige, former Indian, rushed to the rescue in the ninth after the first two Tribesmen reached base.

The Yanks, off the past two days, resume action today with the Senators in Washington. Ed Lopat (16-7) is slated to face Washington's Sid Hudson (4-8). The Indians again entertain the Browns while the third place Red Sox take on Philadelphia in Boston.

Stock Car Winner

Morristown, N. J., Sept. 1 (AP)—Wally Campbell of Trenton, N. J., marked up his eighth win in this season's stock car meet at Morristown raceway by grabbing last night's 12 1/2-mile feature race.

Nelson Applegate of Trenton was second and Bill Tanner of Newport, Pa., third.

GETTING USED TO PEOPLE

We miss a great deal out of the experience of life by not opening ourselves to people whom we may not exactly like, or because of some traits that they may have that we may dislike, and therefore never reach deep enough into their personality to cement them to us as friends. There are some people in this world whom we have to get used to. And when we do, how deeply we realize how much we have missed in our companionship.

As human beings we have universal traits and characteristics, but we all have our weaknesses, and personal characteristics that do not appeal to many. But if we try to pick out the good points of people and get used to overlooking those that do not attract us, we can get along happily with most anyone. It's getting used to people that counts.

The late Walt Mason, prose rhymist, once wrote a poem about a man "with a misfit face" that he described in the most laudable manner. He was so unattractive that when people looked upon him, they stopped and yelled! But when they learned of his gentle weaknesses, his wholesome nature, and his habit of always speaking well of people, and from his lips came no mean or bitter saying, they all, with one accord, said this: "He is a handsome man!"

The reason for so many happy homes and marriages, that at first did not promise to turn out so well, is that such people finally get used to each other, mentally and spiritually, and so live out a useful and satisfactory life. It takes a good measure of patience, seasoned with love and consideration, plus a great deal of overlooking!

We can even get used to living with ourselves, if we try not to live too much within ourselves, spreading out when we can so as to scatter our influence, leaving fragments of ourselves in our friends and associates. What a vacuum is taken from us! It's so difficult to adjust ourselves to being without them — we were so used to them.

Great faith have they in sun and rain
Who yearly plant their fields with grain.
They prove with their devoted toil
A firm belief in seed and soil.

Men build and shape. With gear and wheel
Their skill and genius they reveal.
But still how grain and fruit are grown
Are mysteries known to God alone.

Now comes the harvest Every sheaf
Is God's reward for men's belief,
And vindicates their trust again
In seed and soil and sun and rain.

Contrary to some people's idea "rpm" doesn't stand for the number of roadhouses per mile.

No Picnic For Car

It was a grand vacation and the car did itself proud, but now that things are back to normal again what about the damage which the vacation may have done to the car? Or are you so busy using the car for business and social engagements that you are even putting off the matter of a good greasing?

This is the season of year when a close inspection of the chassis may reveal a broken spring leaf or trouble with the shackles. The front-end is probably knocked out from too fast travel over those rough roads, and is crying for a re-alignment. Those steep downgrades were not easy on the brakes. Too much outdoor parking has worn off the wax you slapped on at the last minute without proper cleaning. The chrome probably is starting to rust. All that mileage probably calls for switching the tires around to even up the tread wear.

It was no vacation for the car even though you and the gang had a wonderful time. The car really would enjoy a day in the shop.

These Come First

Specialists in front-end alignment will bear me out when I say that a lot of the dissatisfaction in this kind of work is due to failure to check tire pressures and to be sure the springs and shock absorbers are working properly before any checking or adjustment is done. Sometimes a car will reveal a binding shackle, or badly mismatched tires. It is also important to make sure just about how much passenger or luggage load the owner customarily carries. A load-sagging rear end changes front-end caster adversely.

Interesting To Know

You may not as yet be using a set of the new tubeless tires, but you have the right information about them if you assume that they take the same pressures as those for tires with conventional tubes.

The fuse for an electric car clock is a two ampere job, and that probably explains why it burns out more often than any other fuse on the car.

Among the new things are chrome guards located under the door handles. They prevent scratching the finish.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

I suppose it is because I know from experience that cars are not all like peas in a pod that I get so steamed up over the way so many writers on car care generalize. You are told to flush out the transmission and rear end gears and replace with new lube. They tell you to rotate tires. They tell you to lubricate the universal joints. Well, it all sounds like common sense, but actually for some owners it may be folly.

"On some cars the lube for the gears should not be changed for different seasons. Some tires have tread patterns that should not be used on front wheels. And some tire treads are not satisfactory or even safe on rear wheels. Many cars have universal joints that need no attention for 30,000 miles or so, and when they are taken off for greasing they might better be replaced."

Out of This Query

Whether the clutch pedal should be up or down while the engine is warming up is an interesting question recently asked by a reader. He was especially interested to know if having the pedal down inflicted any unnecessary wear on the clutch itself, being aware that with the pedal down the starter-motor was spared.

the extra job of turning over the transmission gears.

The answer is more than a simple "yes" or "no." The pedal should be down during the cranking, of course. I would not say that holding the pedal down during a few minutes of warming up would be especially tough on the clutch throwout bearing, but certainly it brings this part into unnecessary use. Something the reader overlooked is the importance of warming up the gear lube before getting under way. So the pedal should be allowed to come up in order that the gears can churn up the gear lube. It will help prevent gear wear.

Pump Held In Reserve

Use of electric fuel pumps appears to be on the upgrade. Their chief virtue is that they have sufficient power to drive the fuel through the lines against the backflow of vapor lock. Also they start working before the engine is cranked. Since they can be mounted away from the engine proper they are less likely to become overheated. One type, used widely on commercial vehicles but available for passenger car use, is a double affair. There's a reserve pump if one should fail.

That's What He Said

In spite of much talk about standardization cars still are surprisingly different in design, especially in details. This was brought into sharp focus in my office recently when an owner inquired about the dual horn buttons on his car and complained that one of them did not work well. Off hand the assumption was that he referred to the possibility that one of the horns wasn't working, most cars having but one horn button.

Well, a thumbing through the 1941 service manual for this car revealed the fact that the particular car and model did have dual contacts for the horns, one at each end of the horn ring. The remedy was to clean the contacts at one side.

Parking On Upgrade

An encouraging note is the method of marking off parking spaces in the newer shopping centers. The white lines are not only run at an angle but are sufficiently far apart that you don't have to come away with a marred door after having bought Uncle Henry a new cravat. Because the cars park on an angle, there is staggering of doors and handles which also helps the cause.

We also note with relief the tendency toward putting guard rails, high enough to be touched by the cars' front bumpers instead of their wheels. This is going to save a lot of expensive front-end alignment work even though it may do a little etching on the bumpers.

Be Sure About This

In these chats about our cars I have frequently mentioned the likelihood of clutch chatter being due to oil leaking past the rear main motor bearing. Further evidence of this is appearance of oil dripping from the clutch and flywheel housing. But here's an angle to consider: On some cars oil leaking at the rear of the camshaft can be mistaken for the sort of leakage that makes for clutch grabbing and difficult shifting.

What's Your Trouble?

Q. In spite of a new battery and a rebuilt starter-motor I still get very slow cranking. The engine itself is very lumber because it is over 10 years old and has never been rebuilt. — H. L.

A. I'd be suspicious of the battery's ground. A poor grounding here will have the same effect as a weak battery.

Q. I replaced the stoplight switch but the stoplights still go on after I have reached the office each morning. They start to go on just about as I reach home. I have not been using this car on week-ends as I have a newer car for pleasure driving. — J. M. K.

A. That is all to the good, because if you should see that business car for more than the short run to the office and back again you would find the brakes starting to drag and lock. The stoplights are going on because of trouble with the master cylinder. Pressure builds up in the braking system.

Q. There is a definite flat spot when I try to accelerate my car. We have had the carburetor's acceleration pump rebuilt, but there was no appreciable improvement. — H. W. McB.

A. I would check for a loose main jet in the carburetor.

Q. There is a built-in oil filter in my car. Should this be cleaned out periodically like other filters? — Wm. L. G.

A. No. But it is always well to clean this filter's sediment trap whenever the engine pan is taken down for mechanical repairs or to clean out terial and carried colonial bouquets. The bride's mother wore a dress of pure green crepe and wore an orchid corsage.

Will Live in Hanover

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the social rooms of the church for approximately 150 guests from Boston, Mass.; Windsor, Conn.; Washington, D. C.; Morgantown and Elkins, W. Va.; Markham, Va., and various points in Pennsylvania.

After the reception the couple left on an extended trip through the New England states, Canada and Nova Scotia. Upon their return they will be at home at 319 Baer avenue, Hanover.

For her going-away costume, the bride wore lavender with black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the Hanover high school and attended Hood college, Frederick, Md. She is associated with the Metropolitan Edison company as home economist. The groom is also employed by the same company.

Youth, 17, Faces Charge Of Murder

Philadelphia, Sept. 1. — Theodore A. Spaulding, Jr., 17-year-old son of a Philadelphia attorney, has been charged with the slaying of a furniture moving man at the Spaulding house yesterday.

The killing occurred on the second floor. The victim, Jacob Rice, 38, was one of a group engaged in moving the Spaulding household to a new home.

Police said the boy told them Rice

made improper advances to him. They quoted the boy as saying he found the gun in a drawer of a trunk.

sludge manually.

Q. I was told that there is poor heat flow in the engine of my car and that is why it tends to over-heat. I don't quite understand this and no one seems to be able to explain it clearly. — T. P.

A. Well, in any engine the heat has to flow from the combustion chambers to the coolant which carries it to the radiator. Poor heat flow can thus be due to sediment and corrosion in the engine block and the cylinder head. It can also be due to oil or grease lining the wells of the block or head.

Q. Most people complain of not being able to get enough braking power when they step on the brake pedal but I get the reverse effect. Even with light pressure on the pedal the brakes are severe. — K. G. J.

A. Scored drums will do this. Or even worn linings. Or grease on the brake shoes.

Q. There is definite brightening of the lights on my car when I speed up the motor, but the battery is well charged and the generator is all right. Ever hear of this? — T. P. D.

A. In your case I would check for a loose fuse holder.

GETTING USED TO PEOPLE

We miss a great deal out of the experience of life by not opening ourselves to people whom we may not exactly like, or because of some traits that they may have that we may dislike, and therefore never reach deep enough into their personality to cement them to us as friends. There are some people in this world whom we have to get used to. And when we do, how deeply we realize how much we have missed in royal companionship.

As human beings we have universal traits and characteristics, but we all have our weaknesses, and personal characteristics that do not appeal to many. But if we try to pick out the good points of people, and get used to overlooking those that do not attract us, we can get along happily with most anyone! It's getting used to people that counts.

The late Walt Mason, prose rhymist, once wrote a poem about a man "with a misfit face" that he described in the most laughable manner. He was so unattractive that when people looked upon him, they stopped and yelled! But when they learned of his gentle weaknesses, his wholesome nature, and his habit of always speaking well of people, and from his lips came no mean or bitter saying, they all, with one accord, said this: "He is a handsome man!"

The reason for so many happy homes and marriages, that at first did not promise to turn out so well, is that such people finally get used to each other, mentally and spiritually, and so live out a useful and satisfactory life. It all takes a good measure of patience, seasoned with love and consideration, plus a great deal of overlooking!

We can even get used to living with ourselves, if we try not to live too much within ourselves, spreading out when we can so as to scatter our influence, leaving fragments of ourselves in our friends and associates. What a vacuum is created when a beloved one is taken from us! It's so difficult to adjust ourselves to being without them — we were so used to them.

FAITH AND THE HARVEST
Great faith have they in sun and rain
Who yearly plant their fields with grain.

They prove with their devoted toil
A firm belief in seed and soil.

Men build and shape. With gear and wheel
Their skill and genius they reveal.
But still how grain and fruit are grown
Are mysteries known to God alone.

Now comes the harvest Every sheaf
Is God's reward for men's belief,
And vindicates their trust again.
In seed and soil and sun and rain.

Riding with Russell

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
BY FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S.A.E.

Contrary to some people's idea "r.p.m." doesn't stand for the number of roadhouses per mile.

No Picnic For Car

It was a grand vacation and the car did itself proud, but now that things are back to normal again what about the damage which the vacation may have done to the car? Or are you so busy using the car for business and social engagements that you are even putting off the matter of a good greasing?

This is the season of year when a close inspection of the chassis may reveal a broken spring leaf or trouble with the shackles. The front-end is probably knocked out from too fast travel over those rough roads, and is crying for a re-alignment. Those steep downgrades were not easy on the brakes. Too much outdoor parking has worn off the wax you slapped on at the last minute without proper cleaning. The chrome probably is starting to rust. All that mileage probably calls for switching the tires around to even up the tread wear.

It was no vacation for the car even though you and the gang had a wonderful time. The car really would enjoy a day in the shop.

These Come First

Specialists in front-end alignment will bear me out when I say that a lot of the dissatisfaction in this kind of work is due to failure to check tire pressures and to be sure the springs and shock absorbers are working properly before any checking or adjustment is done. Sometimes a car will reveal a binding shackle, or badly misaligned tires. It is also important to make sure just about how much passenger or luggage load the owner customarily carries. A load-sagging rear end changes front-end caster adversely.

Interesting To Know

You may not as yet be using a set of the new tubeless tires, but you have the right information about them if you assume that they take the same pressures as those for tires with conventional tubes.

The fuse for an electric car clock is a two ampere job, and that probably explains why it burns out more often than any other fuse on the car.

Among the new things are chrome guards located under the door handles. They prevent scratching the finish.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"I suppose it is because I know from experience that cars are not all like peas in a pod that I get so steamed up over the way so many writers on car care generalize. You are told to flush out the transmission and rear end gears and replace with new lube. They tell you to rotate tires. They tell you to lubricate the universal joints. Well, it all sounds like common sense, but actually for some owners it may be folly.

"On some cars the lube for the gears should not be changed for different seasons. Some tires have tread patterns that should not be used on front wheels. And some tire treads are not satisfactory or even safe on rear wheels. Many cars have universal joints that need no attention for 30,000 miles or so, and when they are taken off for greasing they might better be replaced."

Out of This Query

Whether the clutch pedal should be up or down while the engine is warming up is an interesting question recently asked by a reader. He was especially interested to know if having the pedal down inflicted any unnecessary wear on the clutch itself, being aware that with the pedal down the starter-motor was spared the extra job of turning over the transmission gears.

The answer is more than a simple "yes" or "no." The pedal should be down during the cranking, of course. I would not say that holding the pedal down during a few minutes of warming up would be especially rough on the clutch throwout bearing, but certainly it brings this part into unnecessary use. Something the reader overlooked is the importance of warming up the gear lube before getting under way. So the pedal should be allowed to come up in order that the gears can churn up the gear lube. It will help prevent gear wear.

Pump Held In Reserve

Use of electric fuel pumps appears to be on the upgrade. Their chief virtue is that they have sufficient power to drive the fuel through the lines against the blockage of vapor lock. Also they start working before the engine is cranked. Since they can be mounted away from the engine proper they are less likely to become overheated. One type, used widely on commercial vehicles but available for passenger car use, is a double affair. There's a reserve pump if one should fail.

That's What He Said

In spite of much talk about standardization cars still are surprisingly different in design, especially in details. This was brought into sharp focus in my office recently when an owner inquired about the dual horn buttons on his car and complained that one of them did not work well. Off hand the assumption was that he referred to the possibility that one of the horns wasn't working, most cars having but one horn button.

Well, a thumbing through the 1941 service manual for this car revealed the fact that the particular car and model did have dual contacts for the horns, one at each end of the horn ring. The remedy was to clean the contacts at one side.

Parking On Upgrade

An encouraging note is the method of marking off parking spaces in the newer shopping centers. The white lines are not only run at an angle but are sufficiently far apart that you don't have to come away with a marred door after having bought Uncle Henry a new cravat. Because the cars park on an angle there is staggering of doors and handles which also helps the cause. We also note with relish the tendency toward putting guard rails high enough to be touched by the car's front bumpers instead of their wheels. This is going to save a lot of expensive front-end alignment work even though it may do a little etching on the bumpers.

Be Sure About This

In these chats about our cars I have frequently mentioned the likelihood of clutch chatter being due to oil leaking past the rear main motor bearing. Further evidence of this is appearance of oil dripping from the clutch and flywheel housing. But here's an angle to consider: On some cars oil leaking at the rear of the camshaft can be mistaken for the sort of leakage that makes for clutch grabbing and difficult shifting.

What's Your Trouble?

Q. In spite of a new battery and a rebuilt starter-motor I still get very slow cranking. The engine itself is very limber because it is over 10 years old and has never been rebuilt. — H. L.

A. I'd be suspicious of the battery's ground. A poor grounding here will have the same effect as a weak battery.

Q. I replaced the stoplight switch but the stoplights still go on after I have reached the office each morning. They start to go on just about as I reach home. I have not been using this car on week-ends as I have a newer car for pleasure driving. — J. M. K.

A. That is all to the good, because if you should use that business car for more than the short run to the office and back again you would find the brakes starting to drag and lock. The stoplights are going on because of trouble with the master cylinder. Pressure builds up in the braking system.

Q. There is a definite flat spot when I try to accelerate my car. We have had the carburetor's acceleration pump rebuilt, but there was no appreciable improvement. — H. W. McB.

A. I would check for a loose main jet in the carburetor.

Q. There is a built-in oil filter in my car. Should this be cleaned out periodically like other filters? — Wm. L. G.

A. No. But it is always well to clean this filter's sediment trap whenever the engine pan is taken down for mechanical repairs or to clean out

After the reception the couple left on an extended trip through the New England states, Canada and Nova Scotia. Upon their return they will be at home at 319 Baer avenue, Hanover.

For her going-away costume, the bride wore lavender with black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the Hanover high school and attended Hood college, Frederick, Md. She is associated with the Metropolitan Edison company as home economist. The groom is also employed by the same company.

Youth, 17, Faces Charge Of Murder

Philadelphia, Sept. 1 (AP) — Theodore A. Spaulding, Jr., 17-year-old son of a Philadelphia attorney, has been charged with the slaying of a furniture moving man at the Spaulding house yesterday.

The killing occurred on the second floor. The victim, Jacob Rice, 38, was one of a group engaged in moving the Spaulding household to a new home.

Police said the boy told them Rice made improper advances to him. They quoted the boy as saying he found the gun in a drawer of a trunk.

sludge manually.

Q. I was told that there is poor heat flow in the engine of my car and that is why it tends to overheat. I don't quite understand this and no one seems to be able to explain it clearly. — T. F.

A. Well, in any engine the heat has to flow from the combustion chambers to the coolant which carries it to the radiator. Poor heat flow can thus be due to sediment and corrosion in the engine block and the cylinder head. It can also be due to oil or grease lining the

CORNY STORY

New York (AP)—It takes only 52 kernels of seed corn per capita in the U. S. to grow the more than 2,340,000,000 pounds of corn needed each year to meet the country's nearly insatiable appetite for canned and frozen varieties of the vegetable. This, the American Can company noted, is almost four times the crop of sweet corn grown for canning 50 years ago when it started in business.
